

Ceramic tiles are widely used in the construction industry. Ceramic tiles offer durability, ease in maintenance, they are color consistent, they are light in weight, and they are resistant to corrosion. However, ceramic tiles manufacturing process emits harmful gases and particulate matter which has been a restraint for the Canada ceramic tiles market. Moreover, high volatile nature of pricing of the raw material used in the manufacturing of ceramic tiles such as kaolin, silica sand, feldspar and bentonite also poses restraints which can hinder the growth of the Canada ceramic tiles market. This report, compiled by Fact.MR, provides in-depth analysis of the Canada ceramic tiles market for the forecast period 2017-2022, and offers key insights about future market direction.
